Resumption of ties

Iran wants Saudis to take first step

NICOSIA, Nov 21, (AP): Iranian Deputy Foreign Minister Ali Mohammad Besharati said today that Saudi Arabia should make the first move toward restoring bilateral ties, the official Islamic Republic News Agency reported.

The agency quoted Besharati as saying Saudi Arabia should take the first step in the way of a smooth flow of reciprocal relations," in an interview with the English-language daily Tehran Saudi Arabia broke ties with Iran last April, accusing Iran of terrorism and subversion.

On his tour of Gulf Arab states earlier this month, Besharati said in Kuwait that Iran was ready for direct talks aimed at normalising relations. He repeated the same message on Saturday in an interview with Tehran Radio. Action

But in the newspaper interview, Besharati called for more action from the Saudis, according to IRNA.

Besharati was quoted as say-ing: "If the Saudi regime takes further positive steps, Iran is ready to enter direct negotiations with that regime."
The new condition for direct talks may reflect Iran's desire not to seem over-anxious about restoring ties with the kingdom. Saudi Arabia has dropped its media campaign against Iran, but the Iranian overtures have been ignored in Riyadh. Saudi Arabia Defence Minister Prince Sultan Bin Abdel Aziz said last week that relations with Iran could only be resumed if Tehran refrains from interfering in Saudi internal affairs.

Amir visits Air Force bases

Kuwait to strengthen technical jobs, its armed forces

(KUNA): Kuwait will strengthen its armed forces to protect the country from any aggression, HH the Amir said

Kuwait must reassess the potential of its armed forces so they become "the protective shield" for the country, the Amir

The Supreme Defence Council and the Armed Forces Command are "studying the situation," he said.

However, Kuwait "wants no evil to anyone and does not want to be done evil by anybody," the Amir said.

Greeted

The Amir made the comments at the Officers Club of Ahmed Al Jaber Air Base after an inspection tour of the base.

Earlier in the day, the Amir visited the Ali Al Salem Air Base where he was greeted by Defence Minister Sheikh Nawaf Al Ahmed. Army Chief-of-Staff Gen. Mezyad Abdul Rahman Al Sane. Defence Undersecretary Faisal Al Daoud and senior armed forces officers.

The base commander briefed the Amir on the base's functions, after which he inspected electronic and rocket workshops and warplane Squadron-62.

The Amir pointed out that Palestine could have been liberated long time ago had Arab officials been true to their promises and worked diligently for that end. Sheikh Nawaf praised the

The 13 ministers of the Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries met formally for just 90 minutes before adjourning until tomorrow, signalling another round of behind-thescenes bargaining to try to reconcile Iran and Iraq's rival claims.

Male students prefer arts to science

Kuwaitis shun says rector

KUWAIT, Nov 21, (KUNA): The number of male applicants for science colleges is dropping to an alarming level and many of science college students are flun-: king, according to Kuwait University Rector Dr Abdel Mohsen Al Abdel Razzaq.

In his annual report on the 1987-88 academic year, Razzaq said many Kuwaiti students in science colleges are failing their courses or are transferring to commerce and art colleges.

The situation is turning into a crisis which is becoming a national catastrophe created by both the Kuwaiti government and society, he said.

Skilled The university is trying to attract Kuwaiti students to science, but 70 per cent of them prefer art courses. He described Kuwaitis as non-producers who keep away from technical and skilled jobs that are necessary to the national economy.

The state generously provides all public services without any return from the people, the rector pointed out in the report.

Since jobs are guaranteed by the government to all citizens and the pay scale is nearly the same for all, it is no surprise to see the majority of Kuwaitis seek administrative and clerical jobs that require less effort, he said.

Most of the Kuwaitis accepted in the science colleges this year are women, except in the Faculty of Medicine, in which 70 per cent of the graduates are men.

The rector urged the government to adopt a clear national policy to encourage students to choose careers in the sciences. He suggested granting bonuses to those who choose to study the sciences.

Dr Razzaq also expressed hi education graduates.

Before swearing-in the new legislators, Sprintzak delivered a highly political speech.

More than a dozen left-wing legislators, shouting words of protest, got up from their seats and walked to the back of the hall. They returned when Sprintzak called the names of each Knesset member, but then 15 members refused to utter the required oath.

Opinion polls show Mulroney ahead

Canadians go to polls

OTTAWA, Nov 21, (Reuter): Canadians vote in a general election today with opinion polls showing Prime Minister Brian Mulroney back in front after a bruising campaign focused on his divisive plans for free trade with the United States.

The seven-week campaign has hinged on Mulroney's championing of free trade — an issue which has split the nation and prompted opposition charges of a government sell-out to Washington.

Three weekend opinion polls showed Mulroney's Progressive Conservatives back in front for the first time in weeks after losing ground to the opposition's crusade against the free trade Opposition Liberal leader John Turner made an 11th hour appeal to the left-wing New Democrats yesterday to vote Liberal as the only way to quash the trade agreement.

KUALA LUMPUR, Nov 21, (UPI): Thousands of residents fled their flooded homes today as rivers burst through banks and torrential rains and vicious winds ravaged eastern Malaysia.

INTERNATIONAL

The death toll rose to three. Military forces were dispatched to the worst hit area to boister beleaguered rescue workers after three days of monsoon driven by lashing winds.

A two-year-old girl drowned in the swollen Galas River, and a 70-year-old man was killed and four members of his family injured when a prayer house was knocked down by the strong gusts, officials said. A 20-year-old youth who tried to swim across a river was swept away and reported missing. Haji Yunus Hassan, among those at the prayer house, said "The congregation stood up and within seconds the winds blew away the roof." Army Inspector Azim Bin Adam, co-ordinator at the flood relief centre, said the government has dispatched the Army and Air Force to beef up rescue efforts. The waters are rising rapidly. We're searching for any more missing or dead."

With homes innundated with four feet (1.20 m) of water, an estimated 10,000 fled with only the belongings they could carry in the devasted coastal state of Kelantan where the raging Kelantan River and its tributaries overflowed banks. "This is the worst flood we have ever experienced," said Abdul Ismail Bin Jamil, a storekeeper in the flooded town of Kota Bahru as the water inched up to his door. "No one expected the river to burst."

Journalists at the office of the national news agency Bernama said water was waist-deep on the ground floor, but they were still working from the upper floors.

34 die as Pakistan downs Afghan plane 'by mistake'

PESHAWAR, Pakistan, Nov 21. (UPI): Pakistani officials admitted error in the downing of an Afghan military transport plane that was blown from the sky, killing 34 people, when it strayed across the border.

"The plane was hit by mis-take," said one official who spoke yesterday on the condition of anonymity.

Official sources in Pakistan's North West Frontier Province said the plane was shot by antiaircraft gunners around 8.30 pm Saturday after it flew across the border near the town of Karlachi, about 100 miles (160 km) southwest of the frontier city of Peshawar. The aircraft, which had turned and was beginning to fly back toward Afghanistan when it was hit, crashed into mountains near the border, officials said. The wreckage was scattered over a wide area.

The sources said all 34 passengers and crew were killed. The bodies had been found and buried, but all except two were charred beyond recognition.

Mystified

They said only an Afghan woman, named Zada, and a Pakistani girl, named Farida, were identified. But officials said they were mystified why a Pakistani girl would be on the plane, although they said she may have been a student in Afghanistan.

"The ground troops thought it was a warplane on a bombing mission," said an unidentified official. "There are so many violations of our airspace by Afghan warplanes that our forces have to be alert all the time."

Pakistan shelters US-backed Afghan rebels trying to topple the Soviet-supported Afghan regime.

"Ordinary gunners cannot dif-ferentiate between warplanes and transport planes, and this one came very low and appeared as if it was about to drop bombs and gave no signals, so they fired at it," the official said. Witnesses said Afghan rebels in the area fired into the air in jubilation after the plane was downed.

Shot

A government statement issued in Islamabad said only that an Afghan plane had violated Pakistani airspace and was shot down.

In recent months Afghan warplanes have crossed into Pakistan several times, sometimes bombing and strafing villages and causing many casualties. Pakistani jets have shot down at least four of the intruding warplanes.

Aquino defends 1,000-day record

MANILA, Nov 21, (Reuter): President Corazon Aquino today made a ringing defence of her first 1,000 days in power. She said she had put relations with the United States on a more equal footing, revived the econ-omy and dealt a blow to communist insurgents.

In Manila, troops were put on alert as mini-bus drivers staged a strike coinciding with the 1,000day anniversary to protest against government imposed fare cuts. The strike crippled transport in some areas and stranded students going home from schools, which were closed

Police estimated that by early afternoon 50 per cent of the privately run mini-buses known as jeepneys had joined the strike, though in some areas traffic was virtually normal.

Arrest

Police said they had arrested the leader of the strike for sedition. Twenty others were detained for stoning buses and blocking traffic.

In the speech to members of Congress and her government. Aquino vowed to crack down on big-time smugglers and tax evaders and said criminal char-ges would be filed soon against ousted leader Ferdinand Mar-

from Alghanim Electronics

Aguino admitted failures by her government since she was swept to office by a "people power" revolt in February 1986. She said housing, communications and transportation projects were short of target, garbage was still not being properly collected in Manila and there was a $500 million shortfall in tax receipts. Wages

But in her nationally televised address she said wages had gone up 25 per cent, democracy had been restored and the profits of a revived economy were now going to the producers and workers rather than into the pockets of The 55-year-old President said that over the next 1,000 days she planned to create one million omy of the Pacific nation by 6.5 per cent a year and work to cut the high level of poverty.

She said she would monitor far more closely whether targets were being met and would demand quarterly reports from ministers, which would be made Aquino said a series of coup attempts against her government had set back economic progress but she had successfully weakened the communist insurgency and held firmly onto power despite the rightwing threat.

israel may consider sanctions against Egypt

OCCUPIED JERUSALEM Nov 21. (Agencies): Israel's cabinet will consider taking sanctions against Egypt, such as delaying resolution of a border dispute, following Cairo's recog-nition of a declared Palestinian state, a government official said today.

The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Israel's 10-member, decisionmaking cabinet would discuss Egypt's move at its meeting Wednesday and debate taking possible sanctions in response.

One sanction idea likely to be raised was delaying an Israeli withdrawal from the Taba beach in northern Sinai, he said. Violation

Israeli Defence Minister Yitzhak Rabin charged today that Egypt had violated the spirit of the Camp David accords by recognising the Palestinian state.

Meanwhile, PLO chief Yasser Arafat and Iraqi President Saddam Hussein yesterday urged non-aligned countries to fully recognise Palestine, the Iraqi News Agency reported.

King Hussein of Jordan said yesterday the PLO has met American conditions for a place in Arab-Israeli peace talks and suggested Israel and the United States were blocking peace. Hussein made the comments

The European Economic Community said today that decisions approved by the Pales-tine National Council last week included positive steps towards a peaceful settlement of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

But, in their first common statement on the PNC's pro-clamation of a Palestinian state, the 12 EEC foreign ministers fell short of recognising it.

TOKYO, Nov 21, (AP): Doctors believe ailing Emperor Hirohito could live another month if his heart continues to function normally, a news report said today.

The 87-year-old monarch lay in feeble but stable condition in his Imperial Palace bedroom more than two months after falling seriously ill with an intestinal haemorrhage.
"As his heart is normal, the liver and kidney functions may be maintained for more than one month at current levels if there are no large discharges of blood," the Kyodo News Service quoted palace physicians as say-

Hirohito passed his 13th morning with no signs of further blood discharge today, palace spokesman Kenji Maeda said. Doctors have speculated that a scab may have stopped a tinal area. Hirohito has lost huge amounts of blood through frequent discharges since the onset of his ailment.

The world's longest-reigning living monarch also suffers from jaundice and anemia and is being fed intravenously. Last week, his weight reportedly had fallen to 30 kilogrammes (66 pounds) from his normal 50 kilogrammes (110 pounds). He ran a fever of 37C (98.6 F) today morning, down from the previous evening but still higher than his normal 35.5 C (95.9 F), Maeda said.

Doctors administered 200 cubic centimetres (0.4 pint) of blood in transfusions yesterday, bringing the monarch's total over two months to 20,065 cubic centimetres (43.4 pints).

Iraq, Syria, Turkey to share water

ANKARA, Nov 21, (Reuter): Ministers from Turkey, Iraq and Syria today started drawing up plans to share water from the Euphrates and Tigris rivers after a massive Turkish dam is completed, officials said.

Iraq and Syria are concerned their water supplies from the Euphrates might diminish when the Ataturk Dam is completed in International Committee of Red Cross said today it has been assured by "parties" in Lebanon that they are trying to locate and gain the release of a Red Cross delegate who was kidnapped by gunmen last week in Sidon.

A statement from the Geneva headquarters of the ICRC also renewed an appeal for the immediate release of Swiss Peter Winkler, 32, and said the organisation had not received any news about his whereabouts since he was abducted last Thursday.

Since Winkler's abduction. "ICRC delegates in Lebanon have been in constant contact with all parties in an attempt to break the silence and have him set free without delay," the statement said.

Three European defence envoys visit UAE differences on technical

ABU DHABI, Nov 21, (Agencies): Britain's Defence Minister George Younger conferred today with his counterparts in the United Arab Emirates during a short visit before proceeding to Saudi Arabia.

The official Emirates news agency WAM said Younger was received by the Deputy Supreme Commander Sheikh Khalifa Bin Zayed and Defence Minister Sheikh Mohammed Bin Rashed.

The agency said they discussed military co-operation between the two countries and the situation in the region after the Aug 20 cease-fire between Iraq and Iran. WAM said Sheikh Mohammed stressed the importance of

GCC states consider acquiring own satellite

KUWAIT, Nov 21, (KUNA): Bahraini Information Minister Tariq Al Mu'ayyid said the Gulf Co-operation Council states are considering the acquisition of a satellite of their own.

Al Mu'ayyid, told a local daily today that half of the capacity of the Arab satellite (ARABSAT), since it was launched, has not heen used.

He added that the idea of launching satellites is also being considered by a number of Arab states and this trend must be encouraged.

Discussing the Gulf television transmission, the Bahraini minister said that he was always against the idea of one unified Gulf TV. He would like to see variety and competitive TV stations to enable Gulf inhabitants to choose what interests them.

Replying to a question on Gulf information co-operation, Al Mu'ayyid indicated such cooperation existed a long time ago and was first embodied when the Gulf Co-operation Council was

Officials plan to cut costs for medicine

KUWAIT'S health centres use about KD20 million of medicine per year. There are plans to reduce this amount to KD18 million per annum, a reduction of 5 per cent, according to an authoritative source.

Policy

Speaking to Al Rai Al Aam newspaper, Ibrahim Al Mudhaf, assistant undersecretary for medicine and medical supplies affairs at Kuwait's Ministry of Public Health, said that Kuwait's medical policy was formulated to provide optimum health care services and is well organised. He added that all medical stores at the ministry have been computerised to register and dispense medicines. All health centres of the country have been linked to the computer network at the medical department the official said.

Imported

Medicines are imported into Kuwait by the Ministry of Public Health in two distinct ways. Vital and dangerous items such as those related to diabetes, blood pressure, heart and arteries as well as some specialised antibiotics are imported through direct inquiry and negotiations. Other medicines are obtained through public tenders, Al Mudhaf added.

Book exhibition opens Wednesday

THE 14th Arabian Book Exhibition will be opened by the Minister of State for Cabinet Affairs Rashed Abdul Aziz Al Rashed on Wednesday at the International Fair Ground in Mishrif.

Dr Farouq Ai Omar, acting general secretary of the National Council for Culture, Arts and Literature, said that the exhibition is considered important to the entire Arab world.

Three hundred representatives of 170 publishing houses from 18 Arab countries and seven Arab organisations will participate.

The exhibition will introduce its index containing 32,000 titles of different books and publications. Of these, 19,631 titles are designated for Arabian books, 4,070 for foreign books and 2,984 for children books.

There will be more than 2.5 million books on display. Four thousand titles were not included in the index due to delays in their arrival, Al Omar said.

Plan for locust control

AN international expert arrived in Bahrain yesterday to study a plan for locust control on the island. Ahmed Khazvna, regional locust control officer from the Food and Agriculture Organisation (FAO), will discuss the issue with government officials during his two-day stay. According to Siddiq Al Alawi, assistant undersecretary for agriculture, Bahrain has effectively controlled the recent arrival of locusts to the island.

He said that discussions with Khazvna will be on preparations to face any future invasion of locusts. The FAO expert will be informed about the materials used and measures taken so far by the authorities here to combat locusts. Alawi said locusts did not damage Bahrain's crops as the extension officers kept the situation under control with constant viailance. Khazvana, who is attached to the International Locust Control Centre in Jeddah, is also touring other Gulf states to assess the locust situation in the region. Alawal said that measures taken by Saudi Arabia and Oman to combat locusts will be studied and an effective co-ordinationprogramme with the Jeddah Centre will be worked out.

Municipal elections

By Jorge Mederos

BRASILIA, Brazil, (AP): The strong showing by left-wing can-didates in Brazil's municipal elections has raised the profile of opposition challengers for the 1989 presidential race.

Left-wing parties took control in 10 of the nation's largest cities in what was seen as a rejection of President Jose Sarney's policies. Leftist candidates now go into the November 1989 presidential balloting, the first in 29 years, in a strong position.

Sarney and his allies have controlled Brazilian politics since the nation returned to civilian rule in 1985 after 21 years of military

Public opinion surveys indicated that voters were dissatisfied with record inflation, political corruption, plunging purchasing power and near-constant strikes. Citizens are blaming Sarney's Centrist Democratic Movement Party for inflation that threatens to hit 2,000 per cent and rising unemployment.

In last Tuesday's balloting, 75 million Brazilians in all 26 states chose candidates from 29 parties for mayoral seats and city coun-

He emerged as a strong left-wing rival to Leonel Brizola, who has been leading in the polls as the most popular candidate for president. Brizola, the former governor of Rio de Janiero state who heads the Democratic Labour Party, saw his handpicked candidate win as mayor in Rio.

The biggest surprise after Tuesday's vote was the projected victory in Sao Paulo of the Workers' Party candidate and self-proclaimed Marxist, Luiza Erundina. With 80 per cent of the vote counted in South America's most-populous city, the former social worker led Paulo Maluf. a former military-backed candidate for president, by 5 per

In Belo Horizonte, Brazil's third-largest city, 41-year-old Joao Pimenta da Veiga Filho won by a comfortable margin. He represents the left-centre Brazilian Social Democracy Party, a large group that recently broke away from Sarney's Democratic Movement Party.

Newton Cardoso, centrist governor of Minas Gerais state north of Rio where Belo Horizonte is located, saw all his candidates defeated and is concerned about the results.

Cardoso, in an interview with Globo, the nation's largest broadcasting network, said of the leftist tilt: "This is dangerous for the country."

The conservative daily O Estado de S. Paulo referred to the victory of leftist mayoral candidates in most southern states as the creation of a "red axis."

Eight years of authoritarian rule

By Spencer Sherman

SEOUL, (UPI): Through eight years of authoritarian rule, former President Chun Doo Hwan said history compelled him to take power in a 1979 military

Now, eight months after he became the first South Korean president to voluntarily step down, history has come back to haunt him. He and his family are caught up in a wide-ranging investigation of corruption and allegations of abuse of power.

Pressure is building on the government to settle the sticky problem of Chun's past and observers say President Roh Tae-Woo may have to step in to end the growing controversy as early as this week when he returns from a trip abroad.

Protests

Newspapers say the options for the former general include a public apology, return of "ill-gotten gains" if they are discovered, an internal exile to his provincial home town or a trial. Some reports say Chun should issue an apology and then take "a long trip" abroad.

Radical students are back in the streets, after a full in violent protests during the Olympics, calling for the arrest of Chun and his wife Lee Soon-Ja for human rights abuses and corruption.

(Reuter): WASHINGTON, Democratic Party insiders, reeling from their fifth loss in the last six presidential elections, are arguing over what went wrong and wondering if the White House has become just a mirage for their candidates.

In the aftershock of Michael Dukakis' overwhelming loss to Republican President-elect George Bush, they cannot agree on whether to blame a fumbling campaign by Dukakis, a failure by the party to understand the concerns of the average voter or a nominating system that produces weak candidates.

The White House loss is doubly frustrating because of the party's success at every other level of American politics.

The election strengthened the Democrats' hold on the House of Representatives, where they have held sway since 1955, and gave them at least one more seat in the Senate, where they have been in control for all but six years in the same period.

Pressure

Many Democrats say the Congressional election victories give them as much claim to a policy mandate as Bush and that the president-elect is already under pressure to compromise on a number of issues, including budget policy.
"Unless Bush is willing to work closely to meet some of that Democratic agenda, (his relationship with Congress) is going to be contentious and dif-

President Roh, as part of a promise of democratic reform, has released hundreds of political prisoners and lifted draconian bans on speech, the

"A sincere attitude may find the people more ... magnanimous than possibly expected," said the Korea Herald newspaper in a recent editorial.

More political concerns could motivate President Roh Tae-Woo into attempting to sell Chun on the idea, local political observers and diplomats said. "For all his dirty doings, he did set the first precedent of a South Korean president retiring," said one Western diplomat. "If he suffers too greatly, future presidents could think twice about giving up power." Roh himself is a former general and was closely allied with Chun. When Chun launched his Dec 12, 1979 coup that brought him to power. Roh moved troops, without permission. off the border with North Korea to support Chun.

It is also unknown how much support Chun still has in the powerful military or how willing its leaders would be to come to Chun's aid if they thought he was being mistreated. Opposition leaders Kim Dae Jung said recently, however, that the military was not a threat to South Korea's continuing democratic progress. While Chun has not been directly accused of any crime, more than a dozen family members and associates have been investigated, charged or convicted since he resigned last February.

leader Jean Claude Bajeux said. His administration faces its first significant test today as the autonomous Haitian Workers Union has called a 24-hour strike in protest against price hikes and civil rights abuses.

Political sources said the strike was expected to have limited effect, but they noted that Avril faces an increasingly difficult economic and political situation.

Election

In an interview with Reuters this week in San Salvador, Foreign Minister Serge Elie Charles said the government aimed to hold elections within two years, though he could not set a timetable and said violence continued to be a problem.

Supporters of former dictator Jean-Claude Duvalier, who fled Haiti for France in February 1986, have eased back into influential roles since the military toppled a civilian government in

Last Friday, Avril asked the private sector to lend the government $10-15 million, one local businessman said. The money was apparently to be used to pay for barracks.

"When Duvalier could get no money from the United States, he forced businessmen to support his regime on the pretext of collecting funds for social projects," the businessman said.

The request came after Finance Minister Leonce Thelusma returned on Nov I from a visit to Washington that failed to produce financial assistance for his government.

A US embassy spokeswoman here said she could not comment on the visit but added that no aid can be approved for Haiti until the US Congress begins meeting in January. Washington suspended about $70 million in economic aid to Haiti after aborted elections in Nov 1987 in which at least 34 people died in widespread Avril has been unable to unite the military behind him since the September coup, which was led by palace guardsmen protesting against corruption and inefficiency among their superiors.

Since then, more than 80 officers have been retired or transferred form their units. Radio Haiti said on Monday it had information that several senior military officers were transferred last week. There has been no official announcement. The September coup has resulted in a breakdown of military discipline that has not

Tehran coming in from the cold

ATHENS. (UPI): Iran's resumption of full diplomatic ties with Britain is more evidence that Tehran is coming in from the cold in its relations with the West and some of its Arab neighbours. but there is one major exception

— the United States. Iran's Islamic revolutionary regime launched an aggressive campaign to woo the West earlier this year after Iraq gained dominance in the 8-year-old Gulf war. The new policy began to bear fruit almost before the ink was dry on a ceasefire agreement signed by the two adversaries in August. However, Iran has maintained its public depiction of the United States as "the great satan."

iran was one of only a few nations that did not send a congratulatory message to Vice-President George Bush on his election as president, and official Tehran Radio said on Thursday that Washington must return several billion dollars in frozen Iranian assets before any resumption in relations with the United States could occur.

impossible

Washington has insisted that diplomatic progress is impossible until Iran moves to help free nine Americans held hostage in Lebanon by Iranian-backed guerrilla groups. Britain, however, agreed to renew normal relations on Thursday after nearly a decade of strained ties without having first gained the release of its three to involve sensitive, tortuous hostages in Lebanon, including diplomacy and would require at Church of England envoy Terry Waite, or even freedom for two Britons imprisoned in Iran. There were reports that the two sides discussed the hostages' fate in the Vienna negotiations that led to the resumption of full relations. As part of the agreement Iran pledged not to discriminate against British businesses in Iran and co-operate in the case of the two Britons in an Iranian iail.

The near break in British-Iranian relations began in May 1987, when an Iranian diplomat in Manchester, England, was caught shoplifting. Shortly afterward, Iranian Revolutionary Guards in Tehran kidnapped and best up British diplomat Edward Chaplin, who was subsequently released.

After the incident Britain withdrew its entire staff from Tehran, and Iran left only one representative in London. The two nations stopped just short of breaking off diplomatic ties.

Iran launched its opening to the West at the height of the Gulf war, when the islamic power found itself isolated diplomatically after a series of disputes with Middle East and European countries.

The first success for Iran's new approach occurred with France. Elections

Using the French presidential elections in May as a political backdrop, Iran worked out an agreement to release the remaining two French hostages in Lebanon in exchange for the restoration of diplomatic ties and the paying off of a $1 billion loan made by the former regime of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi.

HAVANA, (Reuter): Mikhail Gorbachev will use his forthcoming visit to Cuba to show that Moscow-Havana ties are still strong despite Western reports to the contrary, diplomats here say.

Diplomatic sources say the Soviet leader will arrive on Dec 9 after attending the UN General Assembly in New York and meeting on Dec 7-8 with President Reagan and Presidentelect Bush. Cuban leader Fidel Castro, BOSTON: Important changes have quietly been taking place in a country noted for its tumultuous politics: Italy. The big story is the decline of the oncemighty Italian Communist Party, so much so that one of its leaders has suggested changing its name and dropping the ham-mer and sickle as its symbol. solve Italy's myriad problems.

Craxi argued that by achieving control of the prime minister's post, the Socialists could illustrate their policies in an effective and visible manner. His goal: a vote shift to the Socialists, reversing the Italian anomaly of a large Communist and a small Socialist tive Craxi cabinet, which ran the country for three and half years. Although favourable factors such as the drop in oil prices helped, Craxi's policies reversed the prevailing negative economic climate and guided the nation into its current impressive prosp-

These contradictions have proved untenable. A decade ago, Socialist intellectuals mounted an effective attack on the Communist ideology, exposing its dictatorial nature and challenging the Communists to abandon it. With Gorbachev's glasnost and the rehabilitation of Stalin's victims came critical examination of Palmiro Togliatti's close collaboration with Stalin's repressive regime. This analysis set off a national debate, because the late Communist secretary, who made his organization into a potent political force, is still revered by Italian Communists. 'Kennedy was a human being, not King Arthur'

Setting the record straight on JFK

Today is the 25th anniversary of President John F. Kennedy's assassination. His former press adviser and close friend Pierre Salinger remembers the man and the myth.

FOR a long time, I remained silent in the face of a mounting campaign to denigrate and even destroy the image of John F. Kennedy.

He has been described as. everything from a dangerous incompetent to a sex maniac. I think the time has come to set the record straight.

Kennedy was a human being, not King Arthur. His administration was not Camelot. It became Camelot only after he died, in the context of the vicious bullets that buried an exceptional man. Less than a week after his death, Jackie talked about the lines from a song he loved — Don't let it be forgot, that once there was a spot, for one brief shining moment that was known as Camelot. "And it will never be that way again," she said. Camelot was a perfect word for a dream that had been shat-

But almost 25 years later, has that dream really been shattered? JFK is dead. But the memory he left still creates a special aura, not only in the United States but around the world. And more and more, people are beginning to reflect on how different the world would be today if he had not

Success

The success of John Kennedy at the time of his death in November, 1963, was not something one could describe simply with facts. American presidents are, by virtue of the office, the most powerful men in the world. Kennedy, at that moment, was also the most popular man in the world, quite possibly the most popular man in all history.

Not only had he roused his countrymen from their post-World War II torpor; he had seemed to kindle everywhere a vision about what humankind could and should be. His perpetual tan, expressive grey eyes and compelling face radiated

He was at once elegant and accessible. Above all, he projected a belief in mankind's ability to determine its fate.

My first contact with JFK was in 1956. At the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, which I was covering as a reporter for Collier's magazine, the vice-presidential nomination was snatched away from him and handed to Estes Kefauver, the senator from Kennedy's speech after he lost the nomination was brilliant. I was hearing a lucid and intelligent young man. He was going to be my candidate for president in 1960. Little did I know then that I would also be working for him.

But less than eight months later, when Collier's folded, I was hired by his brother Robert F. Kennedy for the Senate Select Committee investigating labour racketeering. At the first public hearing in 1957, as I was sitting behind Bobby waiting for the first witness, a tall man sat down next to him. "Pierre, this is my brother Jack," Bobby said. I shook hands with John

Over the next two and a half years. I became more and more impressed with him. Of the eight senators on the committee, only two seemed to have done their homework, coming fully prepared for the hearings

— John Kennedy and Barry Goldwater. So in September. 1959, when John Kennedy called me to his office and said. "Pierre, I'm going to run for President next year. I want you to be in my campaign," I did not have a moment's hesitation. "Senator, you've got yourself a man."

What a contrast between the election of 1960 and what we are living through today. The day Kennedy started campaigning in New Hampshire in January of 1960, barely 20 reporters were on hand. Television was not a predominant force. There were only 16 primaries to win; по Iowa caucus, по Super

The election gave the nation a look at a Northeastern politician who, travelling across the country during his campaign, was learning about America. Kennedy won by a meagre 100,000 votes, but his inaugurai address galvanised the nation. The United States suddenly had a young leader with a beautiful wife and two small children — his daughter. Caroline, and his son, John, born just after Kennedy was

I still look back on those days in the White House with nostalgia and admiration. Kennedy was a very special man. First, unlike many presidents, he was surrounded by a staff of young men and women who from the start were committed to his vision of America. There was no barrier on the President's door. Any of his dozen principal staffers could see him when they wanted to. They didn't need permission from a chief-of-staff to gain access. Second, these staffers believed in each other; there was never an internal White House conflict. The proof: when Kennedy died, the staff was identical to the one in place when he took

Relaxed

The White House had a relaxed atmosphere. The President liked to engage the member of his staff in trivial conversation before he got down to serious subjects. He would often roam around the White House, grabbing magazines or books he wanted to read.

And, when the day was over, the staff went home and Kennedy went home, where he was surrounded by his family and the close friends he frequently invited for dinner and sometimes an early movie.

Kennedy always believed in maintaining two lives. There were his Presidential duties. There was his family and private life. The two were clearly separated. He and Jackie plainly loved each other and had a deep affection for their children. For Jackie, the worst aspect to being in the White House was the press attention paid to the children. She wanted her children to play in their backyard, just as other children did. The problem, of course, was that the backyard happened to be the South Lawn of the White House. I have a pile of letters she wrote me in my capacity as the President's press secretary, complaining bitterly about what she perceived as my inability to keep the press from the children.

Children "I thought you had made an arrangement with the fotogs not to take children playing at WH. They have had all the pictures of Macaroni (Caroline's pony) they need. I mean this want no more and if you are firm and will take the time, you can stop it. So please do. What is a press secretary for — to help the press, yes — but also to protect us. The President would arrive at the Oval Office early, usually accompanied by Caroline and John. They would spend a few minutes with him before going off to the school Jackie had organized in the White House. He also saw the children at lunchtime and before they went to Kennedy would leave the office at around one pm and head for the pool built for Franklin Roosevelt. Early in the administration, Joseph Kennedy, JFK's father, commissioned a mural by the French artist Bernard Lamotte, on the walls of the pool. The painting was a recreation of the harbour of St Croix in the Virgin Islands. The lighting system permitted the President to swim in a setting that could simulate high noon or late night, with the moon and stars twinkling. As to his work, from the start

John F. Kennedy: the memory he left still creates a special aura not only in the United States but around the world

Kennedy had a problem. The narrowness of his victory had not given him the kind of national support he needed. Kennedy understood this. His decision to accept the Bay of Pigs operation from the previous administration turned out to be a drastic mistake.

Kennedy was not a perfect man. He was a human being, not a myth. For all his loftiness of purpose, he did not take himself that seriously. He had no great vision of himself as a political or intellectual giant. He understood that he was a human being, dealing with human problems, and that he would make mistakes. And he did make mistakes. But he was a man who learned from his mistakes, who did not commit them twice.

What made Kennedy special was his view of his responsibilities. He believed in his duty to steer the United States toward a successful future. One prime example: Kennedy understood that when, in 1957 the Soviet Union launched Sputnik, the first artificial satellite to orbit the Earth, it was a direct threat to the United States. That is why he put into effect a vast US space programme, with the objective to land Americans on the moon by the end of '60s. In 1969, his objective was reached. Sadly. he wasn't there to see it.

His relations with the Soviet Union are another fascinating example of his sense of responsibility toward the future. After the tough summit in Vienna in June, 1961, with Soviet Chairman Nikita Krushchev, the two leaders began an extraordinary private correspondence. The first letter from Krushchev was delivered to me in New York's Carlyle Hotel in September, 1961, and the letters continued until Kennedy's death. Probably sometime after the 25th anniversary of his death in November, those letters will be made public.

As one who has read most of them, I believe they will be a stunning revelation of two leaders of confrontation powers groping toward under-standing. And, in fact, that understanding was beginning to pay off before November 22, 1963. Kennedy's American University speech in June of that year — "we shall do our part," he said, "to build a world of peace where the weak are safe and the strong are just" marked the beginning of the end of the cold war. Considering that it came only seven months after the Cuban Missile Crisis, the most dangerous confrontation between the United States and the Soviet Union since the end of World War II, it showed that this private dialogue was having an effect. Only two months later, the US-Soviet Union signed the Test Ban Agreement. Kennedy's death certainty interrupted the progress of the US-Soviet relations, which were only taken up seriously again when Richard Nixon took office.

There were problems in Vietnam, in the Middle East. There was a major effort to help the underprivileged in Latin America. There were complicated defence problems in Europe. Kennedy was dealing with them.

Lived What would have happened had he lived? One cannot adopt presidential positions for a man who is dead. But I strongly believe that US-Soviet relations would have continued to improve in an earlier period, when such a shift could have normalised our relations with Cuba and separated the Caribbean nation from the iron grip of Moscow. And because Kennedy was fundamentally against the United States becoming the principal military force in Vietnam, I don't think he would have sent 500,000 Americans there.

The last time, I saw John Kennedy was November 19, 1963. I was leaving for Tokyo with six members of the cabinet to attend an economic conference. That morning I had received a letter from a woman in Dallas asking me to urge the President not to make the visit there. "Something tells me it is dangerous," she wrote. I mentioned the letter to Kennedy. He smiled briefly. "You know," he said, "anyone can kill a president if he is willing to give up his own life." We shook his hands, and I left.

Three days later, after a meeting in Hawaii with American generals to discuss the Vietnam question, we took off from Honolulu for Tokyo. Two and a half hours into the flight, I was summoned to the front cabin where Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the five other cabinet members were sitting around the table with grim looks on their faces.

"Kennedy's been shot in Dallas," Rusk said. "Set up the communications to the White House." In seconds, I was on the line with Washington. There was total confusion and nobody knew what was happening. Rusk ordered the plane to turn around and head back to Honolulu.

Minutes passed, heavy minutes. And then I heard a voice say, "Wayside (my code name), stand by." Every 30 seconds for several minutes, the same message came through. And then I heard the fatal message. "Wayside, Lancer is dead."

A special era in American history had just ended.

With some players, taking a fi-nesse is like climbing Mount Everest-they do it because it's there. Winning declarer technique, however, calls for finding ways to avoid having to take a finesse, whenever possible. North's cue-bid of four clubs showed a maximum no trump opening with good spade support. (The fourth spade just upgrades his holding to qualify as "good" support.) South's leap to the spade slam was a practical and speedy solution to potential of his side's combined assets. Declarer won the opening club lead in dummy and was prepared to claim his contract until East showed out on the first trump lead. Now, a successful finesse in either red suit would produce the 12th trick. The trouble was that both the heart and diamond finesses could be taken either way (a ruffing finesse is available in hearts), and no competent declarer likes to be faced with a pure

The obvious alternative was to resort to an endplay, and there was one available. Declarer realized that it would not do to draw a second high trump, cash out the clubs and then throw West in with a trump. West would then be able to exit with a heart, and declarer would be faced with the very guess he was trying to eliminate.

There were two solutions to this dilemma, and declarer chose the most elegant. After drawing a second trump, declarer cashed the ace of hearts before stripping clubs from both hands. He then threw West in with a trump, and that worthy was caught in a foolproof endplay. A club would yield a ruffsluff, and either red suit would guarantee declarer an extra trick in that suit. Very pretty!

Endoh said he hoped finance for other projects could be drawn from a $300-million loan which Japan granted to Jordan in December. Almost half the loan has already been allocated to road and education projects. Projects

"We would like to find suitable projects to utilise that loan, but it is limited to public sector projects," Endoh said. He said his company had a strong interest in investing in Jordan's chemical industry, based on potash, phosphates and salts from the Dead Sea, but had made no commitments.

C. Itoh, with a world-wide network of 120 branches, could help to market Jordanian products,

Asked about the impact of Jordan's current economic problems on investment prospects, Endoh said: "We would like to watch and see at what level the dinar's exchange rate stabilises." a lower dinar would encourage Jordanian exports, he said. Meanwhile, Prime Minister Zaid Rifai yesterday termed Jordan's economy basically healthy, but said austerity measures were needed to cope with large debt payments in the next four years.

"In short ... our economy is quite healthy. Economic growth under the circumstances and been excellent," he said in an interview with the Associated

"Our real problem, perhaps our only problem, is the fact that we borrowed money over the last 10 years on the assumption that the Arab states were going to honour their commitments of the Baghdad summit."

But Arab aid only once matched the pledge of $1.2 billion a year for a decade made at the 1978 summit. Only Saudi Arabia paid its full share of $360 million

Rifai said loans incurred in the first years of the commitment brought this country of 2.8 million people to its current foreign debt of nearly $6 billion. Service on that debt will peak at "close to $900 million in 1989 through 1993, prompting the measures aimed at saving foreign exchange reserves.

Rifai said the government had no plans to reschedule or refinance those debts.

He said a series of import bans, an effectively devalued dinar and investment incentives should cut the country's balance of payments deficit to $500 million next year from the previous $1

In past years, Rifai said, Arab aid had been used to help cover that deficit.

"We could not continue living beyond our means indefinitely relying on funds from outside that might not come," he said. The country banned for one year imports of vehicles, some appliances, bricks, marble and some luxury items. It also those and other goods. It put the dinar into a "managed float" that cut the currency's value to about $2 from $3 last year. The fall in the dinar triggered widespread anxiety in Jordan's business community. The country also announced government budget cuts. Rifai said in the month since nvestment rules were liberalised. "I think 450 companies have been set up to construct various industrial products. We're talking about close to 60 million din-

New Saudi oil firm takes over ARAMCO concessions

WASHINGTON, Nov 21, BAHRAIN, Nov 21, (Agencies): A newly-created Saudi state oil (Reuter): The US government must soon raise taxes by up to company is to assume control of $20 billion to avoid further drops the infrastructure taken over in the value of the dollar and earlier from ARAMCO (the higher interest rates, Wall Street Arabian American Oil Company), Oil Minister Hisham economist Henry Kaufman said Nazer said.

This will turn the Saudi Arabian Oil Company, whose formation was announced on Nov 9, into the biggest oil producer in the world, he told the official Saudi Press Agency. Saudi Arabia took over the ARAMCO concessions operated by four US oil giants -Mobil, Texaco, Cheyron and Exxon — in 1976 but did not create a formal institution to run

"When Saudi Arabia bought the infrastructure built by ARAMCO, it did not have the administrative apparatus to receive and develop it in order to create the Saudi Arabian Oil Company." Nazer said.

But he said the newly-formed company would now own the concessions and would have the legal status to sell oil world-wide.

Saudi Arabia aimed to create a system able to respond quickly and effectively to market needs by reducing costs, he said. To achieve this, it was setting up an international marketing company to sell crude throughout the

"Before, this was done by the four big (ARAMCO) partners or through other arrangements that sometimes led to the loss of part of the kingdom's share in marketing because of the lack of an effective marketing apparatus,"

Relations

He said existing marketing and trade relations with the major companies had been kept in place and there was continnous co-operation in all fields between the new company and ARAMCO.

Meanwhile, Nazer said Saudi Arabia is seeking more involvement in refining and marketing oil products as a buffer against swings in crude oil prices.

In an interview on state-run television, Nazer said the Saudi oil industry wants to compete in United States, European and Japanese markets through joint ventures with foreign oil con-

The Saudi Arabian National Oil Company, which runs the kingdom's oil industry, recently launched a joint venture with Texaco Inc to refine and market petroleum in the United States.

"The American market is big and there is still more to it, while there is the very big market in Japan and Europe and Far East, and we as processors of oil must storm these markets and ... guarantee marketing outlets for Saudi crude oil," Nazer said in the interview, broadcast yester-

"In case the price of crude oil drops, the income would be compensated somewhat through preserving the price levels of refined products," he said.

Declining oil prices since 1982 have meant six straight years of budget deficits in Saudi Arabia, the biggest producer among the 13 Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries. Saudi Arabia has the world's largest oil reserves.

Prices

The current world oil glut has forced prices down to about $13 a barrél, well below the OPEC benchmark price of $18.

Nazer said the kingdom's oil development strategy "would be lacking if it did not comprise all stages of the industry starting from the wellhead and ending with the gasoline station. The Texaco deal gave the kingdom a 50 per cent stake in three Texaco refineries and nearly 12,000 service stations in the United States. It was the first maior Saudi attempt to guarantee outlets for its crude oil Revamping the Saudi oil industry also includes measures to improve profits at the staterun refining and marketing company Petromin, Nazer said. Petromin controls all but one of the kingdom's six oil refineries, operates three lubricants plants and distributes and exports refined products.

Petromin also controls exploration and development of non-oil mineral resources such as bauxite, the raw material for aluminium, and gold.

"The aim is to convert all of Petromin's tasks to profit centres that bring additional revenue to the state and then to reduce the expenditure costs in Petromin," Nazer said. He said savings of 500 million riyals ($133 million) already have been made.

US proposes ways to end coffee talks stalemate

LONDON, Nov 21, (Agencies): The United States, the world's biggest coffee consumer, said to end coffee sales to Arah and East European countries at cheaper rates than most of the rest of the coffee-drinking world.

The suggestions, which have not yet been formally proposed, could break deadlock over a new coffee price support pact to replace the existing accord which expires next September, said Jon Rosenbaum, chief US negotiator at International Coffee Organisation talks in London.

The organisation, which groups 50 coffee producing nations and 24 importers, has been divided over ways to end sales to non-member countries, mainly in the Middle East and Eastern Europe, at discounts of up to 50 per cent on the price that member countries have to pay.

Scheme Rosenbaum said the US suggested a self-financing stock retention scheme, whereby producers would be obliged to hold or release stocks depending on prices. The other suggestion was to prevent a future coffee agreement coming into force until countries accounting for 95 per cent of world coffee imports agreed to join. The International Coffee

Organisation's 24 consumer members account for over 80 per cent of total imports. Delegates attending the last scheduled day of the London talks said coffee-producing nations were likely to oppose uncertain how much support they would find among consumers. The US coffee industry itself is opposed to the stock retention scheme, US delegates

Rejected

Coffee producers rejected on Tuesday a proposal by consumer nations for a "universal quota" which would bring all exports under the organisation's price and output rules.

Brazil, the biggest producer, made a counterproposal on Thursday that would call on central banks to make sure coffee was being sold to members and non-members at the same price. But the suggestion was not well received by consumers including West Germany. Britain, the Netherlands and the US, Brazil's delegate acknowled-

Delegates said the negotiations, which formed the first round of talks for a new pact, were confused and it was difficult to see if any progress had been made towards narrowing differences between producers and ended a 10-day strike which the government had said threatened the country with chaos. The return to work brought an easing of ensions in a month which has seen the ugliest labour turmoil since civilian President Jose Sarney took office in 1985. The statecontrolled oil company Petrobras said it expected most of its 61,000 employees to return to work today. The strike, the biggest in the history of Brazil's oil industry, halted all petroleum products exports and threatened the country with shortages of cooking gas, aviation kerosene and other fuels. Union leaders accepted a 15 per cent pay increase offered over the weekend. They had originally sought a 26.06 per cent rise. Sarney, in a radio broadcast last Friday, told the nation that if the strike continued it would couve cheek and a radio before the continued it. would cause chaos and revolt. Two days before the oil strike began, the Army stormed the strike-bound steel plant of Volta Redonda in Rio de Janeiro state, killing three workers, considerably heightening the atmosphere of crisis during the oil strike. At one point during the strike the government threatened to outlaw the stoppage, but it later backed down in a bid to ease tensions. The strike divided the government. Mines and Energy Minister Aureliano Chaves argued for a 20 per cent pay rise for the workers, but Finance Minister Mailson Nobrega and others in the government argued for a smaller increase. With inflation at nearly 30 per cent a month, Brazil has experienced a rash of strikes in recent months which have upted public transport, electricity supplies, universities, the ostry and the steel industry. The strike at Volta Redonda, which began on Nov 7, is still under way. The agreement that ended the oil workers' strike included a commitment by Petrobras not to punish strikers to introduce a six-hour shift within 60 days, and to give a four per cent productivity bonus. The oil workers had ed a pay rise to compensate them for inflation in the month of June 1987. That month had been left out of a governneut programme linking pay rises to inflation.

Nabisco extends deadline for bids

NEW YORK, Nov 21, (Reuter): Tobacco and food giant RJR Nabisco Inc said yesterday it has extended the deadline for bids for the company in the biggest corporate auction ever and disclosed a surprise offer by a group led by First Boston Corp. Nabisco's special board committee announced after a meeting it had extended the deadline, originally set to expire last Friday, by 11 days to Nov 29 at 5 pm (2200 GMT). It said a group consisting of First Boston and Resource Holdings Associates offered $15.75 billion and the group planned to sell the company's food holdings for a $13 billion note. The First Boston Group could ultimately pay shareholders $98 to $110 in a deal which could be worth up to $25 billion, the company said. Kohlberg Kravis Roberts and Co on Friday made a cash tender offer of $94 a share in a bid worth roughly $22 billion. The offer was raised from a previous $90 a hare, or $20.7 billion, bid. An RJR Nabisco management group long with Shearson Lehman Hutton Inc and Salomon Brothers Inc bid $100 a share, or $23 billion. The management group had previously bid $92 a share, or about $21.2 billion. Analysts said licated First Boston proposal appears to be the highest offer and virtually ensures another round of bidding by the Nov 29 deadline. Nabisco said the committee decided not to recom any of the proposals at this time. It said it extended the deadline because of varying terms, values and considerations associated with each bid. The company said the three bidders would be able to continue or finalise their current proposals, withdraw them or submit revised bids. A Kohlberg Kravis Roberts spokesperson said the company would consider its alternatives before deciding what further steps, if any, it might take,

Economic Forum holds annual general body meeting

NRI group gives guidelines to expat Indian investors held its annual general body meeting at the Diplomat hotel on Friday.

The meeting, organised by the Bahrain chapters of the Institute of Engineers (India) and the Institution of Chartered Accountants, was attended by nearly 100

committee members and guest

THE Non-Resident Indian (NRI) Investors Group Bahrain,

speakers from various professions in the island. Nevin Megchiani, president of the group, spoke about the role and objectives of the group in Bahrain. He said that the NRI Investors Group, also known as an "Economic Forum" was established to assist expatriate Indians in the country by providing information on setting up a business venture back in India.

"Weare here to help our fellow non-resident Indians solve any problem they may have on investing in any commercial project in India. Basically we provide them with useful information and guidelines on what they should expect before setting up an indus-try in India. We tell a prospective investor living outside India about the rules, facilities and industrial laws that exist for starting any kind of business."

Product

Megchiani highlighted the activities of the group in Bahrain over the last few months. He said the group has been keeping NRI's informed about business opportunities in India. He called for more volunteers to help in the work of the group. He said there are a growing number of talented professional NRI's in Bahrain whose support and involvement are keenly sought by the group.

R.N. Ghosh, a leading mechanical engineer employed with the Ministry of Works, Power and Water, presented a paper on industrial opportunities for NRI's in India - focusing on "service organisations as a support to industries" and "service organisations for the repair of products and refurbishment of spare parts."

He emphasised the importance of plant and equipment maintenance in both heavy and service industries in India to ensure production of quality goods. He said India particularly lacks maintenance facilities for petrochemical industries and agriculture. 'At the moment India does not have a single industry with proper maintenance facilities, unlike the developed countries," said Ghosh, who also works for some of India's biggest industrial houses including Birla. A chemist also employed with the Ministry of Works, Water and Power, cited the example of Latex Glove as possible industrial project in India for NRI's. He said Latex Glove, a good deterrent against AIDS, could be a suitable project for an overseas

Indian investors. According to him, such a project should cost Rs. 110 lakhs (inclusive of plant and equipment) and generate a turnover of Rs. 2 crores. The plant would be operational nonstop for 300 days in a year. Problems N. Mayuranathan, a chartered accountant employed with Bahrain Airport Services, presented papers on financial matters, including taxation, related to setting up of an industry in India. He said one of the common problems facing NRI

investors is their ignorance of fin-ancial considerations and industrial laws for small, medium and large scale industries in India. He emphasised the importance of adequate market research.

The stock market in India, the Bombay Stock Exchange was discussed by P.G. Parikh, a top financial consultant from Bombay. He detailed the procedures and intricacies of buying and sell-ing shares throughout India for NRI's.

There are 70,000 Indians in Bahrain, of which about 3,000 are NRI investors, according to Rajeev Shaney, a committee

Meanwhile, the Non-Resident Indian Group-Bahrain will be sending a strong team to the forthcoming second Gulf NRI seminar to be held from Dec 14-16 in Dubai.

U.K. STOCKS STEADY NEAR DAY'S LOWS IN LATE TRADING

LONDON, NOV 21, LONDON - SHARE PRICES STEADIED NEAR THE DAY'S LOWS IN LATE TRADING, HAVING EASED IN RESPONSE TO A LOWER TREND ON WALL STREET. BUT SELLING INTEREST WAS MINIMAL AGAINST BACKGROUND OF MODEST OVERALL TURNOVER.

AT 1619 GMT THE FTSE 100 SHARE INDEX WAS SIX POINTS OFF AT ,817.4 ON TURNOVER OF 303.3 MLN SHARES. DEALERS SAID NERVOUSNESS OVER WALL STREET'S NEAR TERM PATH

AND HESITANCY AHEAD OF U.K. OCTOBER BALANCE OF PAYMENTS FIGURES DUE ON FRIDAY WERE KEEPING INVESTORS ON THE SIDELINES. DEALERS NOTED TRAT THE DOLLAR SHOWED RENEWED WEAKNESS AFTER

U.S. PRESIDENT-ELECT GEORGE BUSH SAID CUTTING THE U.S BUDGET DEFICIT WAS A TOP PRIORITY BUT HE WILL NOT CHANGE HIS VIEW ON HOW TO REDUCE THE SHORTFALL. THE U.K. EQUITY MARKET'S ATTENTION IN THE SHORT TERM WILL BE

FIXED ON WALL STREET'S PATH WITH NEWS EXPECTED ON THESDAY ON J.S. OCTOBER CONSUMER PRICES AND EARNINGS AS WELL AS A STATEMENT ON THE FEDERAL BUDGET.

TRADERS WILL BE WATCHING OUT FOR FRESH SHARP DOLLAR DECLINES IF EITHER SET OF INFORMATION UNSETTLES THE U.S. CURRENCY.

London Gold

LONDON, NOV 21, REUTER - GOLD BULLION HAD ITS LOWEST FIX FOR NEARLY THREE WEEKS THIS AFTERNOON BUT THEN TRIMMED LOSSES AS THE DOLLAR WEAKENED AGAINST OTHER LEADING CURRENCIES.

DEALERS SAID THE WEAKNESS OF SILVER PRICES HAD CONTRIBUTED TO A LOWER AFTERMOON FIX OF 415.95 DLRS AN OUNCE, DOWN FROM AN EARLIER SETTING OF 416.60 AND PREVIOUS CLOSE OF 417.50/418.00. BUT DOLLAR WEAKNESS IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE FIXING HELPED GOLD

TO RECOVER TO AROUND 416.50/417.00 DLRS. U.S.-BASED SELLING ON COMEX SAN SILVER DECLINE TO AROUND SIX DLRS AN QUINCE, DOWN FROM A CLOSING RANGE ON FRIDAY OF 610/612 AND A MIDDAY FIX OF 613.85.

London Money Market

LONDON, NOV 21, REUTER - MONEY MARKET INTEREST RATES EMAINED LITTLE CHANGED FROM FRIDAY'S LEVELS IN QUIET LATE TRADING WITH NO NEW FACTORS EMERGING TO AFFECT SENTIMENT. ONE MONEY BROKER SAID, "THE MARKET'S ON HOLD UNTIL THE (U.K.) BALANCE OF PAYMENTS MUMBERS ON FRIDAY. I CAN'T SEE ANY

BIG MOVES UNTIL THEN." TRADERS SAY THE BRITISH TRADE AND CURRENT ACCOUNT DATA FOR OCTOBER ARE THE ONLY THING LIKELY TO CHANGE RATES AND EXPECT TH MARKET TO REMAIN IN A NARROW RANGE UNTIL THEN. THE BENCHMARK THREE MONTH INTERBANK RATE WAS QUOTED AT 12-3/16 1/8 PCT WITH OTHER DATES OUT TO ONE YEAR AT 12-1/4 1/8 PCT.

Wall Street Market Report

NEW YORK, Nov 21, (Reuter) - Stocks fell further in thin trading, brokers said. S.G. Warburg analyst Ken Ducey said a drop in the stock of Intel affected the general market, overcoming interest in a third, potentially higher bid for The Dow was off 16 at 2046 and declining issues led gainers by two-to-one. Intel sank 3-5/8 to 19-1/2. It expected growth to ease for the next six months. In other computer stocks, IBM fell 7/8 to 114-7/8, Microsoft fell 1-1/8 to 45-1/2 and Compag was off 1-1/4 at 53-1/2. R.J. Reynolds was up 2-1/2 to 86-1/2.

Kenya sets currency crackdown

NAIROBI, Nov 21, (Reuter): Kenyan President Daniel Arap Moi today gave residents of the country five days to surrender any illegal holdings of foreign exchange, the official Kenya

He set a deadline of noon (0900 GMT) on Nov 25 for such currency to be surrendered.

about to travel out of the country or if they have received convertible currency for the export of goods or services.

Travelling residents must surrender foreign currency within 48 hours of returning to Kenya and an elaborate system of control applies to businesses' foreign currency earnings.

Moi said in a Saturday radio broadcast that Kenyan Asians which in East African usage means people originating from India and Pakistan — were involved in black market dealings.

official exchange rate is 33 shilling to the pound.

Moi gave no details, either on Saturday or in his Monday order, about alleged collaboration with dissidents.

Last year, he also accused unpatriotic and involved in illegal currency trading.

Controls

The government subsequently tightened export controls to halt foreign exchange losses allegedly linked to fraud.

It suspended two banks, Bank of Credit and Commerce (Overseas) Ltd and Biashara Bank of Kenya Ltd, from foreign exchange dealings for almost a year and several bankers, coffee exporters and customs officials were charged with contravening currency, export or import rules.

1660 ZLRICK PS Kuwait dinar deposit rates steady in active trade

KUWAIT, Nov 21, (Reuter): Kuwaiti dinar interbank deposits were generally steady in active trade today but some short-dated funds eased in response to an influx of liquidity. Dealers said government salary payments brought dinars into the previously tight market, levels. They dealt at five per cent after trading at 10 per cent the previous day. Spot-next and tomorrow-next were relatively steady at six, 5-1/2 per cent while one-week firmed 1/2 point on the offer side to 7-1/2, 6-1/2 per cent.

Positions Dealers large reported amounts of trade in the one to three-month maturities at seven per cent as banks covered end-ofyear positions.

But rates for one and threemonth deposits remained relatively steady at 7-3/8, 6-7/8 per cent and 7-1/4, 6-3/4 per cent respectively. Six-months was also put at 7-1/4, 6-3/4 per cent.

The Central Bank adjusted its dinar exchange rate softer to 0.27999/09 to the dollar from 0.2778/88 yesterday. Commercial banks quoted spot rates of 0.27992/02.

Meanwhile, Saudi riyal interbank deposits firmed across the board today in response to profit taking by kingdom banks, tight liquidity, and expectations rates would continue to move higher. Dealers said activity focussed on the forward market as banks borrowed riyals to swap into dollars at the request of some corporate customers. They said many kingdom and offshore banks were continuing to hold long dollar positions, maintaining upward pressure on rates. Tight

"We think the market will remain tight until the end of the year when the budget is announced," one kingdom dealer said.

Rates for fixed period maturities had eased by around one percentage point last Thursday following a statement by the Saudi finance minister ruling out a change in the rival's 3.75 parity to the dollar.

They were steady in thin trade on Saturday and Sunday, when many offshore players in Bahrain and London are absent.

One-month funds climbed 3/8 point to 9-3/4, 1/2 per cent, then slipped to 9-5/8, 3/8. Three-months rose 1/4 point to 9-3/4, 5/8 per cent while six-months firmed 1/8 point to 9-5/8, 3/8. One-year was relatively steady at 9-5/8, 3/8 per

The spot riyal was also steady at 3.7506/09 to the dollar.

Bush deficit comments hit dollar

LONDON, Nov 21, (Reuter): President-elect George Bush sent the dollar sliding again today when he said there would be no change in his "no new taxes" policy for cutting America's budget deficit.

Bush's campaign pledge not to raise new taxes is the latest reason given by currency dealers for the way that confidence in the US economy and in the dollar has ebbed in recent days.

They say they can't see how else he can cut a budget deficit of around $150 billion — and speculative selling of the dollar resumed today when he told reporters that, while cutting the deficit was a top priority, he would not change his view about how to do this.

Incentive

"This gave dealers an incentive to throw out the dollar." a European operator said.

The dollar slipped to close in London at 121.90 yen and 1.7265 West German marks, down from 122.65 nd 1.7350 on Friday.

A sharp fall by the dollar last week brought leading central banks repeatedly into the open market to buy dollars and try to stabilise the exchange rate of the currency in which most of the world does business.

European currency dealers said the market was wary of selling too hard today in case the central banks came back in. The feeling in Frankfurt was that would move if the dollar slipped to 1,7250 marks.

The dollar is down by around two per cent since the Nov 8 US election and 10 per cent since the summer, although it is still above historic lows touched at the start of this year.

Currency trading today was thin ahead of a holiday in Japan on Wedneday and Thursday's US Thanksgiving Day.

In stock markets, Tokyo moved to a record close for the seventh straight session buoyed by the strong yen which seems certain to keep Japanese interest rates low. The Nikkei average made a 104-point gain to 29,284.

But Wall Street eased in thin trading taking the Dow Jones Industrial Average down 17.42 to 2,044.99 by New York's midday.

Gold prices slipped to the lowest afternoon fix in London's bullion market for three weeks at $415.95 an ounce, down almost $4 from Friday.

Allure

One reason is that oil prices are weak, robbing gold of its allure as a hedge against inflation. Typical North Sea crude continued to trade just below $12 a barrel today, a dollar down from a week ago.

Petroleum traders are scep-tical whether OPEC talks in progress in Vienna will resolve a

The spotlight, however, remained on the US economy and the impact that anxieties about it are having on the dollar.

US Senate minority leader Robert Dole today described the budget deficit as the greatest threat to the world economy.

"The single biggest threat to our economy and the world economy is the budget deficit," Dole, a Republican, said at a meeting with foreign businessmen in Jakarta, Indonesia. "About 15 per cent of the budget is interest on the debt, and that's gone up from seven per cent 10 years ago," Dole said. "If we address the deficit it will send the right signal around to our economy and the world's." Dealers

European dealers did not react much to news that Bush named former deputy Treasury Secretary Richard Darman as director of the office of management and budget. Darman, 45 is a hardened veteran of toplevel White House policy battles. There had earlier been worries.

though, that former Reagan adviser Martin Feldstein would get a major role. Feldstein sent the dollar down last week when he said it needed to drop by 20 per cent in the next three years to correct the US trade gap.

At 1619 GMT the FTSE 100 share index was six points off at 1,817.4 on turnover of 303.3 million shares.

Dealers said nervousness over Wall Street's near term path and hesitancy ahead of UK October balance of payments figures due on Friday were keeping investors on the sidelines.

The UK equity market's attention in the short-term will be fixed on Wall Street's path with news expected on Tuesday on US October consumer prices and earnings as well as a statement on the federal budget.

Traders will be watching out for fresh sharp dollar declines if either set of information unsettles the US currency.
One dealer said: "The next resistance point on the FTSE index looks to be 1,800 and after that 1,780. If it goes through 1,780 there could be a bloodbath." Lonrho stood out with a 18p fall to 393 reflecting an unwind-

"If by tomorrow OPEC ministers do not reach a solution, it will be time to pack their bags and go home," said Naumaj Barakat, analyst at New York-Prudential-Bache based Securities. "At the moment we are still at square one, but nobody has the courage to say it."

The main progress appears to have been keeping Iran and Iraq at the bargaining table, only the second time the two ministers have held talks together since August's Guif war ceasefire. We're still talking about how to find a way out," Chalabi told reporters. "I hope there will be a solution."

But he signalled no softening of his stance. "Our position is very clear," he said.

Aghazadeh, seen as one of Tehran's hardliners, was also adamant he would not climb down and insisted that Iran, historically a bigger producer, should keep a higher quota. The tone of the meeting was, however, conciliatory, with Saudi Arabian Minister Hisham Nazer playing down fears of deadlock. "We have made lots of progress," he said.

KUWAIT, Nov 21, (KUNA): The National Bank of Kuwait will soon lead manage KD10 million ($36 million) bond issue on behalf of Kuwait Real Estate Bank, NBK chairman Mohammed Abdulmohsen Al Khorafi said yesterday.
The dinar-denominated bonds, carrying an annual yield of 6.75 per cent of issuance value, will mature on Nov 30, 1991. Khorafi said the new issue is the debut in the local KD bond market in 1988, and the third NBK-managed bond issue on behalf of the Real Estate Bank. He said that the issue has been fully underwritten by NBK as lead manager and other Kuwaiti banks and financial institutions. The issue has been offered for public subscription on Sunday until Tuesday's deadline. The bonds will be listed on the Kuwaiti securities market.

The service offers a direct line enquiry service, where customers can make a full range of enquiries, including enquiries about balances in their accounts. They can also request any information about NBK, its products and its services, in Kuwait and abroad.

Its human response feature, a critical, allows direct contact and comprehensive service to the person through the telephone. Computerised pre-recorded reports including daily exchange rates, interest rates, financial reports and salary payment dates, accessible by a straightforward telephone dialing without any coding requirement.

Al Fulaij also pointed out that results are the best proof of success and popularity. More than 900,000 calls have so far been counted in 1988 for the computerised pre-recorded reports, he said.

TEHRAN, Nov 21, (OPECNA): Iran is to supply the Soviet Union with three billion cu. metres of natural gas yearly, according to an agreement signed between the two sides in Moscow on Saturday.

The two countries also agreed to build new projects in the irrigation, power and steel sectors. The agreement revives a previous one which lay dormant since the Iranian revolution on account of certain differences which have now been resolved. The accord was signed for Iran and for the Soviet Union by Konstantin Katushev, minister of foreign economic relations. Pleasure by Mahmoud Vaezi, director-general at the Foreign Ministry.

Katushev expressed "pleasure" over the expansion of bilateral economic relations between the two countries and spoke of the "good neighbourly ties" that existed between Iran and the Soviet Union.

The Iranian official responded by saying that a "realistic approach to bilateral relations had paved the way for the promotion of Tehran-Moscow

It had brass knobs at the top and brass knobs at the bottom; the old woman had never seen a bed like that before. And when she got up and looked out of the window, it was a big house, and it was in the middle of the town, and there were white steps up to the door and men and maids to wait on her, and a carriage and pair to go driving in.
Well, the old woman was pleased. But she never thought to say "Thank you" to the fairy.

Well, the fairy she went east and she went west, and she went north and she went south, and one day she came back to the town where the old woman was living in the big house, in the middle of the town, with white steps up to the door and men and maids to wait on her, and a carriage and pair to go driving in. And the fairy said to herself, "I'll just go and take a look at her. She will be pleased.

The old woman who lived in a vinegar bottle

But do you know, as soon as the fairy stood inside the old woman's door, she could hear the old woman talking to herself, and what do you think she was saying? "Oh! 'tis a shame. Look at the queen," said the old woman, "sitting on a gold throne, and living in a palace, with a gold crown on her head, and a red velvet carpet to walk on. Why shouldn't I be a queen and sit on a gold throne and live in a palace, with a gold crown on my head and a red velvet carpet to walk on? 'Tis a shame, 'tis a shame; so it is, 'tis a shame.

Well, the fairy was disappointed because she did think she would have been pleased. But she said, "Well-l-l-l, never you mind. When you go to bed tonight, just you turn round three times, and when you wake up in the morning you'll see what you'll sec.

So the old woman went to sleep in the grand bed with the brass knobs at the top and the brass knobs at the bottom, in the big house, in the middle of the town, with white steps up to the door, and men and maids to wait on her, and a carriage and pair to go driving in. And she turned round three times, and when she woke up in the morning — she was in the grandest bed that ever was seen, with a red satin coverlet, and there was a red velvet carpet by the side of the bed, and a gold crown on a table all ready to put on when she dressed. So the old woman got up and dressed and put on the gold crown, and walked on the red velvet carpet, and there was a gold throne to sit on. And the old woman was pleased. But she never thought to say "Thank you" to the fairy.

Jumping coin The illusion:

An empty matchbox is placed on top of someone's head and is balanced there as a coin is sealed inside an envelope.
The envelope is placed on a second person's head who stands at least three feet away. A clap of the hands and the magic is done. The envelope is torn open and shown to be empty, and the missing coin is found inside the closed matchbox.

The preparation:
Push the drawer of a matchbox about twothirds of the way out of its cover. Slide a penny into the opposite end of the cover and wedge it between the inner end of the drawer and the top of the cover. (1). Prepare the envelope by slitting almost the entire length of one end with a sharp razor blade. (2). Have a duplicate coin in your pocket and you're ready to do the trick.

The trick: Show the inside of the empty matchbox by holding it toward the audience above the cover, thumb on the bottom, fingers on the top. Close the box by gently sliding the drawer down into the cover

(3). Ask someone to imitate a magician's table and as you place the box on top of his or her head, squeeze the sides of the box to free the coin. Remove the penny from your pocket, show it, and drop it into the envelope, making sure the slit end is held slightly higher than the other. Now as you seal the envelope tilt it in the other direction so that the penny secretly slides into your waiting fingers (4). Gently put the envelope on a second person's head to also use their talents as a table.

Clap your hands to create the magic force. Remove the envelope from "Table No. 2," tear off the slit end, and let the person examine the envelope. Without going near "Table No. 1" have the person take the box from his or her head and open it. There is the missing coin. Well, if you call it the missing coin, they'li believe you!

Choi wins Toyota golf trophy

The fact of the first of the formation of the second of the formation of the second of

S.W. CHOI, of South Korea, surprised the large number of competitors who played for the Toyota Trophy at the Hunting & Equestrian Club on Friday by winning this stableford event with a score of 40 points.

Choi, who coaches Kuwait's national volleyball team and started golf only two months ago, tied S.S. Meng (12) at 40 points. He was declared the winner on the basis of a countback his 22 points on the back 9 were one better than Meng's 21.

The Toyota Trophy was introduced for the first time this year by Toyota's Kuwait agent Mohammed Naser Al Sayer & Sons Establishment. The competition attracted one of the largest entries ever at an event at the H&E Club.

66 golfers, including ladies, teed-off to a shot-gun start and soon found themselves having to cope with a strong wind which lasted throughout most of the afternoon.

The leading scores, particularly Adnan Assaf's are testimony to the leaders' ability to play the wind.

Assaf, potentially the best player in the H&E stable, who currently plays off 7, produced a creditable 74 which included an out-of-bounds on the 18th hole, for his 39 stableford points and the 3rd position. One point behind at 38 was B.G. Kim who was followed by D. Greg, H. Rolf and J.H. Kim, all at 37.

Although Assaf's errant drive on the 18th cost him the title, he was easy winner of the nearestto-the-pin prize, on the 2nd, being almost the only player to make the brown in one in the strong wind. His drive on the 14th, however, was not long enough to bag him the prize for the long drive as well. The much improved and hard working Suhail Gidwani, who has been knocking on the doors of glory for sometime now, hit a massive 320 yards (only 30 yards short of the 14th brown), out driving Adnan by 10 yards and, in the process, joined the big boys.

Among the ladies, Valentina Henderstroem, who has made the long drive her personal monopoly, established her versatility, by winning the nearest-to-the-pin on the 13th. D. Brero won the prize for the longest drive, com-fortably out distancing Sigrid Swaries on the 11th.

M. Mathews, general manager of Mohammed Naser Al Sayer & Sons Establishment, presented the prizes

Drug test

WEST BERLIN, Nov 21, (Reuter): An Italian three-day event rider tested positive for drugs in the Seoul Olympics but the tests were not carried out correctly, the general secretary of the International Equestrian Federation (FEI) said yesterday.

Fritz Widmer of Switzerland told reporters at the West Berlin horse show that the first analysis of the probe showed positive.
But now mistakes had shown up in the testing process so that it was doubtful if the rider would be punished, he added.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov 21, (AP): Promoter Bill Mordey today unveiled plans that could take Australian boxer Jeff Fenech to a fourth world title and a million dollar meeting with Barry McGuigan.

ARGENTINE STAR SCORES BIGGEST CAREER WIN

Sabatini tames Shriver for title

NEW YORK, Nov 21, (Reuter): Gabriela Sabatini won the big-gest title of her career by beating Pam Shriver 7-5 6-2 6-2 yesterday in the final of the milliondollar women's tennis championships that signal the end of the 1988 tour.

The normally reserved Sabatini often punched the air with a clenched fist after stroking winner and shouted encouragement to herself throughout the two-hour 20minute match.

The fourth-seeded Sabatini, who entered the match with a 3-5 record against Shriver, called it her biggest win ever. Snapped "It was the best week I ever had in my life," said the fourth-seeded Argentine, who won $125,000. "I have to say that today is the best tennis I ever Sabatini's straight-set triumph snapped an impressive upset streak by Shriver. The fifth-seeded American ended the 46-match win streak of world number one Steffi Graf in the

In the hard-fought opening set, Sabatini and Shriver exchanged service breaks in the third and fourth games, and Sabatini broke again for a 4-3 lead on a Shriver double-fault.

Shriver saved a set point in the 10th game when she stabbed a forehand volley into the open court and finally broke Sabatini on her fifth break point. But Shriver appeared drained, dropping her serve in the 11th game and letting Sabatini take the net twice in the 12th game to win the Shriver struggled with her serve, her biggest weapon, for the rest of the match. She doublefaulted on break point in the first game of the second set and was broken in three of four service games in the second set.

Sabatini kept the momentum by breaking first in the third set for a 2-1 lead when Shriver hit a volley wide. Shriver saved a break point in the fifth game to pull to 2-3 but Sabatini swept the last three games for the match Shriver said she had problems with Sabatini's topspin ground-strokes throughout the match.

"When you don't see heavy topspin that much, it takes a little bit of getting used to. I have to be able to handle the spin more on my vollies," Shriver said. "She was also hitting them incredibly well today." Shriver said the 11th game of the first set was critical.

"The biggest game of the match was after I broke her for 5-5. I had to hold serve in the next game," she said.

Schedule

Her victory in the only best-offive women's final on the schedule took the 18-year-old Sabatini over the million-dollar mark in winnings for 1988.

The best thing is to end the year with a big victory like this. That's going to make me more eager to practice for next year," said Sabatini, whose best previous major tournament showing was as runner-up to Graf at this year's US Open.

DETROIT, Nov 21, (Reuter): John McEnroe beat Aaron Krickstein to win the World Championship Tennis (WTC) tournament yesterday but stood by his decision not to compete next week in Brussels in hopes of qualifying for the Masters cham-

"It's tempting," said McEnroe after defeating Krickstein 7-5 6-2 for the $59,500 winner's prize. "I know I could get a wild card entry and I feel I can win.

"But mentally I'm starting to get tired and I don't want to run the risk of injury by playing for three or four more weeks.

41 entries for Dubai rally

KUWAIT'S Tariq Al Wazzan and Eid Fallah will be aiming to enhance their growing reputations in next month's Emirates Dubai International Rally, which brings the 1988 FISA Middle East championship to a climax.

Al Wazzan, partnered by Khalid Khalifa, and Falah, accompanied by Sadeq Ashkanani, will both go into action in Dubai in Range Rovers.

The final entry list released yesterday by the organising Al Nasr Motor Sports Club revealed a starting line-up of 41 cars for the 927-km two-day event which roars to life on Dec 1.

Heading the 25-vehicle UAE challenge is Dubai's Mohammed Bin Sulayem, the defending champion who is currently lying second in the race for the regional title which he has won twice in a

West Indies overwhelm Australia

(Reuter): West Indies proved their overwhelming superiority over Australia by cruising to a nine-wicket victory in the first cricket Test today.

The touring side scored the 63 runs needed for victory in midafternoon of the fourth day after earlier dismissing Australia for 289 in their second innings.

Despite the large margin of victory, Australia showed further signs of recovery today after hitting rock bottom during the first three days of the match. Dismissed

Australia, resuming at 200 for six, appeared heading for an innings defeat when lan Healy and Tony Dodemaide were dismissed in quick succession to reduce the home side to 212 for eight. They needed 227 to make West Indies bat again.

But pace partners Craig McDermott and Chris Matthews put on 58 runs, showing the Australian upper order how best to handle the West Indies pace

The two watched every ball carefully but refused to be intimidated, using power and the full face of the bat to deal with anything slightly loose. Matthews hit five fours in his

Smith blasts 69 as Kiwis draw with Tamil Nadu

PANAJI, India, Nov 21, (Reuter): Ian Smith's blistering 69 off only 61 balls was the highlight of New Zealand's second innings total of 231 for nine as the three-day match against Tamil Nadu ended in a draw today.

Play was called off by mutual consent 30 minutes after tea.

New Zealand, one run ahead at the start of the final day, lost 2 early wickets and then slipped to 128 for five soon after lunch despite a fluent 53 by Mark Greatbatch.

But Smith and Ken Rutherford, who made 42, hit the touring team out of trouble. They plundered 76 for the sixth wicket in only 56 minutes Smith reached his 50 off only

Trail Blazers beat Nets

PORTLAND, Oregon, Nov 21. (AP): Jerome Kersey is still hurt-ing from a sore shoulder and wrist, but the Portland forward overcame the pain against the New Jersey Nets yesterday.

Kersey scored 29 points and grabbed 10 rebounds and Clyde Drexler added 12 of his 27 points in the third quarter as the Portland Trail Blazers defeated the Nets 117-106.

Kersey, who was injured last Tuesday against the Los Angeles Clippers, scored 19 points in the first half, and his six points late in the third period helped Portland open an eight-point lead.
"I almost didn't make this game," said Kersey, who also got five stitches in his forehead when he was knocked to the floor by the Clippers' Benoit Benjamin. "I'm still hurting, but I forget about it when the adrenalin gets

"When you get off to a good start, you don't think about the pain," said Kersey, who had 12 points in the first period. "It was my decision to go tonight. I just want to play.

"We had a problem in containing Kersey and Drexler also hurt us," Nets coach Willis Reed said. "The matchups weren't good all the way around, but it was a credible effort considering how short-handed we were."

Centres Joe Barry Carroll and Keith Lee are injured for the Nets.

Portland led 55-52 at halftime. then built a 92-84 edge by the end of the third period and 97-86 margin with 9:54 left in the came on a hook shot by Steve Johnson and a layup by Craig Neal.

Portland's biggest lead came with 5:14 remaining when Kevin Duckworth's layup and Caldwell Jones' jumper made it 109-

Mike McGee led the Nets with points, while Walter Berry added 15. Steve Johnson scored 16 for Portland.

Alen takes RAC Rally lead

TELFORD, England, Nov 21, (Reuter): Markku Alen took over as leader of the British RAC Rally today when defending champion and fellow-Finn Juha Kankkunen was stopped by a puncture in the tough forest stages of North Wales.

Twice former world champion Kankkunen, in a four-wheeldrive Toyota Celica, held a 27 seconds lead overnight. He lost three seconds on today's opening 10th stage before being halted when a rear tyre blew early into Kankkunen lost almost a minute to Alen and later slipped back a further 10 seconds after the 12th stage. Sweden's Bjorn Waldegaard took over second place in another Toyota.

Alen was 58 seconds clear after 12 of the 52 stages.

Soviet entrant Eugeni Tumulaichus was timed out of the rally this morning after being detained by the police for an alleged traffic offence.

Platini feels frustration of bench

(euter): French national team chief Michel Platini felt all the frustration of sitting on the bench as he watched France surrender the lead twice before losing 3-2 to Yugoslavia in a World Cup qualifier in Belgrade on Saturday.

"I played with them without being on the field," said the former European Footballer of the Year of his first match in charge. Experience

"I rediscovered certain feelings, the joy and disappointment that I used to experience a few months ago. But the hard part is not being able to score."
Platini, who scored a record 41 goals for France before retiring from soccer last year, watched helplessiy as his team squandered a 2-1 lead with two defensive lapses in the last 14 minutes.

laiseibha beal Oviedo to lay in contention for title

MADRID, Nov 21, (Reuter): England international Gary Lineker scored his first goal of the season yesterday to help Bar-celona defeat Real Oviedo 2-1 and stay firmly in contention for the Spanish League champion-

The away victory keeps Bar-celona two points behind reigning champions Real Madrid, who struggled to beat Logrones I-0 away on Saturday. Ricardo Bango put Oviedo aheadafteronly 13 minutes when he skilfully drew Barcelona's veteran goalkeeper Andoni Zubizaretta and pumped a low shot into the net. Loose

Stung into action, Barcelona equalised 12 minutes later when Lineker latched on to a loose ball and shot home through a crowded penalty area.

Striker Julio Salinas secured the points for Barcelona just seconds from the halftime whistle when he scored with a fine volley from less than 10 metres out

Oviedo squandered a golden opportunity to share the spoils when striker Alberto Berto fired a penalty kick harmlessly over the crossbar midway through the second half.

Injury-plagued Athletic Bil-bao, coached by Briton Howard Kendall, picked up their first point in six League matches with a 1-1 draw at home to Real Betis.

Striker Jose Recha put Betis in front after 30 minutes but Athletic drew level after the interval when young midfielder Ricardo Mendiguren beat Argentine World Cup goalkeeper Nery Pumpido.

Seville stay third in the table, three points behind Barcelona, after goals by Austrian international Anton Polster and Uruguayan signing Pablo Bengoechea earned them a 2-0 home win over Real Sociedad.

Atletico Madrid, fifth in the table, had to be satisfied with a goalless home draw against Sporting Gijon although Ath-letico's Brazilian striker Baltazar de Morais hit a post early on.
